

Release notes

Bridgit® conferencing app 1.1 for iPad

About these release notes

These release notes summarize the features of the Bridgit® conferencing app for iPad.

Product information

The Bridgit conferencing app for iPad is designed specifically to provide iPad users with remote connectivity to a Bridgit meeting.

Downloading the app through Apple's App Store provides easy access to a content-sharing and collaboration tool between meeting rooms and classrooms, and it addresses the emerging market demand for iPad connectivity in both business and education segments.

RELEASE NOTES

Bridgit conferencing app for iPad

Highlights

- Join a Bridgit meeting without a password by knocking
- Raise and lower your hand in a Bridgit meeting
- Multi-task on your iPad by suspending the Bridgit conferencing app for up to five minutes without leaving the meeting

Known issues

If you join a Bridgit meeting from an e-mail invitation, Safari is directed to the App Store. This doesn't affect your ability to join the meeting. If the Bridgit conferencing app is installed, it starts and you can join the meeting. If the app isn't installed, you're prompted to download it from the App Store.
